Daily Prayer

We Protestants make strong claims for the power of reading the Bible. As we at Shadyside affirm every Sunday morning, reading the Bible gives us “the Word of the Lord,” addressed to us individually and collectively; “thanks be to God.” The slender volume you hold in your hand is a tool our congregation uses to hear and respond to this life-giving Word with our ordinary, daily lives.

Praying the Scriptures: Daily Prayer is something different from Bible study. It is quite possible to read the Bible as information, as literature, as history. What we seek here is the nurture of our spirits: daily worship, daily listening and giving thanks to the Lord of our lives. Prayerful reading requires that we engage not only our minds, but our hearts and souls as well.

Because Daily Prayer is a discipline, it will necessitate some method on the part of the pray-er: a regular time, place, cup of coffee, even paper or notebook and a favorite pen. Most people find that a written response to a word or phrase in the reading helps focus their conversation with God and helps them take the word with them through their day.

One Year’s Readings: The readings presented here are deliberately short; they can be read and reflected on in less than thirty minutes. They come from the Revised Common Lectionary, prepared by a group of scholars from many of the major Christian churches. In this Lectionary, we read the New Testament through once every year, while the Old Testament readings extend over a two-year period. The readings are also designed to reflect the seasons and festivals of the church year so that Advent and Christmas readings include prophesies of the Messiah, Christ’s birth narratives, and expectations of the Second Coming.

The Psalms are the prayer book of the Bible and, as such, have a special place in Daily Prayer. The plan for reading the Psalms presented here provides for reading all 150 Psalms once every eight weeks.

Assigning the readings to a specific date allows all of us to be praying the same scriptures daily – enhancing not only our conversations with God, but also our prayerful connections with each other. In addition, the specific date allows us to let go of a set of readings we missed and move on to today's readings without a guilty look behind us.

Specific Notations: In order to keep the readings brief, some portions of scripture are omitted. Occasionally, some of these omitted verses are put back in as "optional." Parentheses indicate what the scholars who compiled these lists regard as "optional" verses for your consideration. They make the reading longer than normal, but were deemed too important to eliminate altogether.

Some of our faithful readers have said they are unfamiliar with the use of "a" and "b" with Bible verses. The division of our Bible into verses dates back to the 16th century and does not always fall where modern readers would choose. Adding "a" or "b" to a verse number can sometimes avoid this awkwardness. For example, the Old Testament reading for Christmas morning, "Micah 5:2-5a," designates beginning at verse 2 and continuing through the first half of verse 5. Verse 5b starts a new section of prophesy.

Other readers have noted that they struggle with the way some of the longer Psalms are distributed over a morning and evening, two mornings, or in the case of Psalm 119 over an entire week. The task force who compiled this edition of Daily Prayer would be delighted to devise a plan that is more satisfying to our readers. We encourage you to experiment with other ways of praying these longer Psalms and to let us hear from you.

No Easy Read: Dr. Barnes reminds us that the Bible is no easy read but well worth the effort. "We try our best to domesticate the Bible, to read it as our version of the way we would like things to be. But the Bible is recurrently odd and unaccommodating. At the same time it is a garden of constantly changing growth, a county fair crowded with life. It cannot be diagrammed; it can only be entered. It is a story which we can only live into. This is what it looks like to be human in this God-made and God-ruled world; this is what is involved in becoming and maturing as a human being."

Our task force invites you to enter into this garden of spiritual growth with us. We will be interested to receive your comments for our next edition to be published for 2008-2009.

An Order for Morning Prayer

Call to Worship

Lamentations 3:22-23

The Lord's unfailing love and mercy never cease,
They are new every morning, and sure as the sunrise.

Prayer of Adoration

Lord God, as this morning is new, so are your mercies.
Open my eyes to see and my lips to praise.
Show me my sin that I may receive your grace,
repent, and turn to you.
Remember your mercy, O Lord, and your steadfast love.
As I read your word, reveal yourself to me.
Lead me in your truth and teach me, for you are the God of salvation;
for you I wait all day long.

Hymn

Benediction

Eternal God, you call us to ventures of which we cannot see the ending, by paths as yet untrodden, through perils unknown.
Give me faith to go out with courage,
not knowing where I go,
but only that your hand is leading me,
and your love is supporting me,
through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

2 Corinthians 4:6

God who said, “Out of darkness the light shall shine!” is the same God who made light shine in our hearts to bring us the knowledge of God’s glory shining in the face of Jesus Christ.

Prayer of Confession

O God, our Creator,

by whose mercy and might the world turns safely into darkness and returns again to light;

I give into your hands my unfinished tasks,
my unsolved problems,
and my unfulfilled hopes,
all these are yours even as I am yours.

Where I have turned from you, forgive me and lead me home again.

Where others have wronged me, strengthen me to forgive.

Comfort and protect me in the night hours;

fill me with your peace as I rest in you. Amen.

Hymn

Benediction

As you have made this day, O God, you also make the night.

Come upon me with quietness and still my soul,
that I may listen for the whisper of your Spirit and be attentive to your nearness in my dreams.

Empower me to rise again in new life
to proclaim your praise,
and show Christ to the world,
for he reigns forever and ever. Amen.
