Trinity Sunday

3 in 1 and 1 in 3
Let's all learn about the Trinity!

OK, science fans, what are the three physical properties of water or more specifically H₂O?

Wait for it...

Wait for it...

Wait for it...

How about liquid, solid, and gas? In this case, we can think of them as water, ice, and steam or vapor. All three are made of the same stuff:

2 atoms of hydrogen (H) + 1 atom of oxygen (O) = 1 molecule of water

How can 2 + 1 = 1?

Through science, we learn two things combined with one thing can form ONE new thing.

Through faith, we learn and believe God is one thing with three parts:

God the Parent of Jesus + Jesus the Son of God + Holy Spirit = God

God Math is where 1 + 1 + 1 = 1

Today is TRINITY Sunday. This is the special day we celebrate the three-in-oneness of God. We cannot see God. We cannot see the Holy Spirit. None of us has actually seen Jesus the person. This is the great mystery of our faith as Christians – believing without actually seeing. The cool thing is we CAN see what God and the Holy Spirit do. We can read and hear about what Jesus did and taught.

Pastor Lynn's sermon today will help us understand what it means to "Adore the Mystery" of our faith.

Fun Fact:

"tri-" is a prefix meaning "three." A triangle has three sides. What other "tri-" words do you know?

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
